The performance is a deep meditation on the human being and in particularly on women: a reflection on the discrepancy which merges the appearances to the reality on the daily life. What comes out is a saga on love, a picture on couple's relationships and, above all, the fact of being alone facing any personal choice and style of life. Inside of a couple's system of life we can find plans and rules which are constantly broken and reinvented: only the human being survives in this eternal fight (even if it is surely not unchangeable!), so far than its own personal story, its own micro-cosmos... and the right to the existance in dispute of the choosen style of living.

Very important to the contemporary research and result is the unusual employment of Vivaldi's Four Seasons Concert - live performed and adapted for directing's needs -.
